

Coaching Circles

Develop the Leaders your organisation needs for today & tomorrow through coaching

What is a Coaching Circle?

Coaching is the working partnership of coach and client that aims to deepen learning and exceed personal and professional goals. EquiLearn Coaching Circles add another dimension; the support and problem-solving capability of the group or circle; an external perspective.

How do Coaching Circles Work?

- + Circles are made up of 5-6 senior leaders
- + All members are focused on continuous personal development contextualised to their professional lives
- + Each circle series consists of 6 sessions of 90 minutes completed within a 12 week period
- + Meetings are held in central London usually in the early evening
- + Meetings follow a specific format for maximum effectiveness
- + Coaching Circles are based on a philosophy of action learning through collective problem-solving but with individual ownership of issues
- + All sessions are facilitated by a professional EquiLearn coach
- + Circle membership involves a one time fee and a personal commitment to participate in the full series

Cost

The cost for membership of a Coaching Circle is available on request.

EquiLearn recommends that Coaching Circle members take a measure of emotional intelligence (an EQi). Success today - personal and professional - demands relationship skills as never before. Research shows that people with high EQs or emotional quotients are more likely to succeed; emotionally intelligent living is a critical aspect of the 21st century landscape.
